3. Aecon Group is a major Canadian construction and engineering firm, a leading contractor on B.C.'s Site C dam project and on several nuclear power, oil and gas facilities and pipelines, and Light Rapid Transit projects across Canada. Last October, Aecon Group announced it was being acquired by CCCC International Holding Ltd. (CCCI), a subsidiary of China Communications Construction Ltd., one of the world's largest infrastructure companies. China Communications Construction is a Chinese state-owned enterprise. The deal is worth $1.5 billion. On February 12, Aecon announced that approval was delayed while the federal government completes a national security review of the deal. Would you say that you support or oppose the sale of Aecon to CCCC?

In order to grow and be able to bid on larger and more complex projects in Canada and around the world, Aecon needs the additional capabilities and resources it will get from the deal with CCCC.	516	237	278	118	175	222	42	186	211	77	55	461

If the sale goes through, it isn't fair to other Canadian construction and engineering companies because they will be put in the position of having to bid against a Chinese government-controlled and backed company.	197	111	87	75	66	57	16	67	82	32	113	84

If the Government blocks the sale of Aecon, it will hurt Canada's relationship with China.	526	269	256	112	193	222	41	184	227	74	80	446

I am concerned that Chinese ownership of Aecon would have an impact on the quality of the materials, architecture and engineering used for major construction contracts in Canada, such as power plants, government buildings, bridges, and dams.	237	140	98	73	79	85	20	97	87	34	97	140
