Reuters/Ipsos Poll: Democratic Primary Tracking

Reuters/Ipsos Poll shows Joe Biden still in the lead among Democratic registered voters

Washington, D.C., August 6, 2019 — A new Reuters/Ipsos public opinion survey of 2,129 Americans found that 28 percent of Democratic registered voters report they would vote for former Vice President Joe Biden if the Democratic presidential primary were held today. This number is stable from the last time Reuters/Ipsos asked in early July 2019.

The same poll found that 46 percent of Democratic registered voters said that the ability to beat President Donald Trump is the most important factor they will consider when deciding who to vote for in the 2020 Democratic primary.

PRESS RELEASE

About the Study

These are some of the findings of an Ipsos poll conducted between August 1, 2019 and August 5, 2019 on behalf of Thomson Reuters. For this survey, a sample of 2,129 adults age 18+ from the continental U.S., Alaska and Hawaii were interviewed online in English. The sample includes 1,795 registered voters, 807 Democratic registered voters, 772 Republican registered voters, and 140 Independent registered voters. Weighting was then employed to balance demographics to ensure that the sample's composition reflects that of the adult population according to Census data and to provide results intended to approximate the sample universe. The precision of Ipsos online polls is measured using a credibility interval. In this case, the poll is accurate to within  $\pm 2.4$  percentage points, 19 times out of 20, had all Americans been polled. The credibility interval will be wider among subsets of the population. All sample surveys and polls may be subject to other sources of error, including, but not limited to coverage error, and measurement error. The poll also has a credibility interval plus or minus 2.6 percentage points for registered voters, plus or minus 3.9 percentage points for Democratic registered voters, plus or minus 4.0 percentage points for Republican registered voters, plus or minus 9.4 percentage points for Independent registered voters
