About the Project

- The TrustGov project (funded by the UK's Economic and Social Research Council) and the Museum of Australian Democracy teamed up to conduct surveys fielded by Ipsos MORI in May and June 2020.
- We asked nationally representative online samples of the Australian, Italian, UK and US publics a series of questions about their perceptions of the coronavirus pandemic, their general trust in a number of institutions, and their evaluations of the performance of political leaders in handling the crisis.
- Details of the fieldwork dates and sample sizes of the four surveys are summarised below
