

Patients' perception and adherence regarding Methotrexate Autoinjectors for Rheumatoid Arthritis

According to a survey conducted in 4 countries with...

100
patients

who use a methotrexate autoinjector for their Rheumatoid Arthritis

52 years old

(on average)

Diagnosed

8.2 years ago

(on average)

and 2 out of 3 of these patients have used an autoinjector for more than 1 year

These patients have consulted

87%

General practitioner

58%

Rheumatologist

47%

Other Healthcare Professional

And 1 patient out of 2 found that their opinion in the choice of the type of autoinjector used totally mattered

Respondents satisfaction with their Methotrexate autoinjector of Methotrexate autoinjector users interviewed in this survey are satisfied with their autoinjector

(regardless of the brand tested)

72%

are satisfied with the end-of-injection recognition system

72%

are satisfied with the ease of use (autoinjector)