Appointment of Lorenzo Larini as Chief Executive Officer, Ipsos in North America

Paris, September 14th, 2021 – Today, Ipsos announced the appointment of Lorenzo Larini as Chief Executive Officer for Ipsos in North America, succeeding Pierre Le Manh who decided to follow other professional opportunities.

Didier Truchot said: “We are excited to welcome Lorenzo to Ipsos. He brings a wealth of experience in the research and advisory fields leveraging data and technology to drive business performance. His vast experience partnering with clients to help them stay ahead of the unrelenting changes of technology and markets is a unique asset to the company”.

With over two decades in the technology information industry, Lorenzo occupied senior leadership positions with Gartner before joining Ipsos. He was the Leader of the North American Consulting business and global Senior Vice-President, Executive Programs, providing tools, insights and knowledge to CIOs and their teams. He is based in Ipsos’ New York office.

Lorenzo Larini said: “For over four decades, Ipsos has been a reliable partner to many leading organizations and institutions across the world. I am thrilled to join the most innovative player in its sector. As technology continues to affect more aspects of our lives, expectations of consumers, citizens and employees are constantly evolving. Ipsos is uniquely positioned to help every organization to act with more confidence, faster and smarter”.

Biographical details:

Lorenzo Larini was born in 1974 in Tuscany. He is married and has one daughter. He has lived and worked in several countries including Italy, the United Kingdom and the United States. Before joining Gartner, Lorenzo held Product Management and Software Engineering positions. He studied Computer Engineering at University of Pisa, in Italy.
