

PUBLIC POLL FINDINGS AND METHODOLOGY

Reuters/Ipsos Poll: January 6th Committee Hearings

Topline Findings

Washington, DC, June 9, 2022 – A new Reuters/Ipsos poll fielded in advance of the Congressional January 6th Select Committee hearings, finds 2 in 5 have heard, read, or seen at least a fair amount about the hearings. The committee will present previously unseen material documenting January 6th, receive witness testimony, and provide the American people an initial summary of its findings.<sup>1</sup>

Our poll finds half of Americans (51%) think Trump is responsible for the Jan 6th riot, and that the people who broke into the Capitol are criminals. In fact, 66% of Americans say that what happened on Jan 6th at the Capitol is more akin to protesters committing criminal acts by trying to stop the certification of the election through violence and intimidation than protesters gathering to express their First Amendment rights to free speech, assembly, and petitioning of government (34%). Eighty-four percent disagree that it is acceptable for someone in their political party to commit violence to achieve a political goal.

Finally, 55% also say Trump should not run for President again in 2024 and 58% say the people who were at the Capitol and have since been arrested or criminally charged are being treated fairly.

These are the findings of an Ipsos poll conducted between June 7-8, 2022. For this survey, a sample of 1,004 adults age 18+ from the continental U.S., Alaska, and Hawaii was interviewed online in English. The poll has a credibility interval of plus or minus 3.8 percentage points for all respondents.

PUBLIC POLL FINDINGS AND METHODOLOGY

About the Study

These are some of the findings of an Ipsos poll conducted between June 7-8, 2022 on behalf of Thomson Reuters. For this survey, a sample of 1,004 adults age 18+ from the continental U.S., Alaska, and Hawaii was interviewed online in English.

The sample was randomly drawn from Ipsos' online panel, partner online panel sources, and "river" sampling and does not rely on a population frame in the traditional sense. Ipsos uses fixed sample targets, unique to each study, in drawing a sample. After a sample has been obtained from the Ipsos panel, Ipsos calibrates respondent characteristics to be representative of the U.S. Population using standard procedures such as raking-ratio adjustments. The source of these population targets is U.S. Census 2019 American Community Survey data. The sample drawn for this study reflects fixed sample targets on demographics. Posthoc weights were made to the population characteristics on gender, age, race/ethnicity, region, and education.

Statistical margins of error are not applicable to online non-probability polls. All sample surveys and polls may be subject to other sources of error, including but not limited to coverage error and measurement error. Where figures do not sum to 100, this is due to the effects of rounding. The precision of Ipsos online polls is measured using a credibility interval. In this case, the poll has a credibility interval of plus or minus 3.8 percentage points for all respondents. Ipsos calculates a design effect (DEFF) for each study based on the variation of the weights, following the formula of Kish (1965). This study had a credibility interval adjusted for design effect of the following ( $n=1,004$ ,  $DEFF=1.5$ , adjusted Confidence Interval= $\pm 5.3$  percentage points).
