ATTENTION PAID TO THE INVASION OF UKRAINE GLOBALLY

Q. How closely, if at all, have you been following stories about the Russian invasion of Ukraine?

% Following it very or somewhat closely
28-Country Average

- On average across 28 countries, 64% of the public surveyed follows the Russian invasion of Ukraine closely
- Only 18 points lower than inflation – the world’s #1 concern – and 6 points lower than climate change and severe weather

Base: 19,003 online adults under the age of 75 across 28 countries
The "Global Country Average" reflects the average result for all the countries and markets where the survey was conducted. It has not been adjusted to the population size of each country or market and is not intended to suggest a total result.

The samples in Brazil, Chile, Colombia, India, Indonesia, Malaysia, Mexico, Peru, Singapore, South Africa, Thailand, and Turkey are more urban, more educated, and/or more affluent than the general population.

ATTENTION PAID TO THE INVASION OF UKRAINE BY COUNTRY

Q. How closely, if at all, have you been following stories about the Russian invasion of Ukraine?

% Following it very or somewhat closely

- Attention paid to the Russian invasion of Ukraine is highest in India and Japan, as well as Sweden, the Netherlands, Poland, and Spain
- It is lowest in Thailand and Malaysia
- On average across all 25 countries already surveyed in late March-early April, it has dropped by 5 percentage points

OPINIONS ON OWN COUNTRY'S RESPONSE: GLOBAL PICTURE

Q. Would you support or oppose [your country] doing the following in response to the current situation in Ukraine?

- On average across all 28 countries surveyed, there is more support than opposition to stringent sanctions against Russia and restricting oil and gas imports from Russia despite the risk of price increases, but also to keeping diplomatic ties with Russia
- Also, on average globally, there is majority opposition to one's own country sending troops to Ukraine while opinions are mixed about sending troops to NATO countries neighboring Ukraine and providing weapons and/or air defense systems to the Ukrainian military
- However, across the US, Canada, Britain, Australia and the nine EU countries surveyed, proponents of continued support to Ukraine until all Russian forces have left its territory outnumber opponents by an average ratio of 3 to 1

CHANGE IN OPINIONS ON OWN COUNTRY'S RESPONSE – GLOBALLY

Q. Would you support or oppose [your country] doing the following in response to the current situation in Ukraine?

- On average, across the 25 already countries surveyed back in March-April 2022, views about how one's country should respond to the situation in Ukraine have not changed much.
- Support for applying tough sanctions against Russia and restricting imports of fuel from Russia are softened only very slightly.
- On the other hand, support for various forms of military action have also firmed up slightly.

* Continuing to support Ukraine until all Russian forces have withdrawn from territory claimed by Ukraine

Applying the most stringent economic sanctions against Russia

Providing weapons and/or air-defense systems to the Ukrainian military

Maintaining diplomatic ties with Russia

Limiting or restricting imports of oil and gas from Russia even if this leads to steep increases in energy and food prices

Sending troops to NATO countries neighboring Ukraine

OPINIONS ABOUT SANCTIONS ON RUSSIA RELATIVE TO INFLATION

Q. All in all, which of the following two opinions is closest to how you feel?

- More think that economic sanctions on Russia are necessary to support Ukraine and encourage Russia to end the war despite their impact on energy and food prices than feel the sanctions on Russia aren't worth the economic impact they are having in their country – by a difference of 15 percentage points on average across the 28 countries surveyed.
- Only three countries show significantly more saying sanctions are not worth the negative impact they have on their economy significantly than saying they are worth it: Hungary, Malaysia, and Indonesia.

■ Economic sanctions on Russia are necessary to support Ukraine and encourage Russia to end the war, even if it means energy and food prices will remain higher for a while
■ Neither
■ Don't know
■ The sanctions on Russia aren't worth the economic impact they are having in [country] on energy and food prices

Methodology

These are the findings of a 28-country Ipsos survey conducted November 25 – December 9, 2022, among 19,003 adults aged 18-74 in the United States, Canada, Malaysia, South Africa, and Turkey, 20-74 in Thailand, 21-74 in Indonesia, and 16-74 in 20 other countries, via Ipsos's Global Advisor online survey platform.

Each country's sample consists of ca. 1,000 individuals in each of Australia, Brazil, Canada, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy, Japan, Spain, and the United States and ca. 500 individuals in each of Argentina, Belgium, Chile, Colombia, Hungary, India, Indonesia, Malaysia, Mexico, the Netherlands, Peru, Poland, Singapore, South Africa, South Korea, Sweden, Thailand, and Turkey.

The samples in Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Poland, South Korea, Spain, Sweden, and the United States can be taken as representative of these countries' general adult population under the age of 75.

The samples in Brazil, Chile, Colombia, India, Indonesia, Malaysia, Mexico, Peru, Singapore, South Africa, Thailand, and Turkey are more urban, more educated, and/or more affluent than the general population. The survey results for these markets should be viewed as reflecting the views of the more "connected" segment of their population.

The data is weighted so that each market's sample composition best reflects the demographic profile of the adult population according to the most recent census data.

The Global average reflects the average result of all the countries and markets where the survey was conducted that year. It has not been adjusted to the population size of each country or market and is not intended to suggest a total result.

Where results do not sum to 100 or the 'difference' appears to be +/-1 more/less than the actual, this may be due to rounding, multiple responses or the exclusion of don't knows or not stated responses.

The precision of Ipsos online polls is calculated using a credibility interval with a poll of 1,000 accurate to +/- 3.5 percentage points and of 500 accurate to +/- 5.0 percentage points. For more information on Ipsos's use of credibility intervals, please visit the Ipsos website.

GAME CHANGERS

In our world of rapid change, the need for reliable information to make confident decisions has never been greater.

At Ipsos we believe our clients need more than a data supplier, they need a partner who can produce accurate and relevant information and turn it into actionable truth.

This is why our passionately curious experts not only provide the most precise measurement, but shape it to provide True Understanding of Society, Markets and People.

To do this we use the best of science, technology and know-how and apply the principles of security, simplicity, speed and substance to everything we do.

So that our clients can act faster, smarter and bolder. Ultimately, success comes down to a simple truth:
You act better when you are sure.
