At a glance

56%

on average say society is broken in their country. In Germany it's 77%, up 16 points since 2021. South Africa and Hungary record the next highest scores (72% and 71%)

68%

say their country's economy is rigged to advantage the rich and powerful. This sentiment has remained broadly stable for nearly a decade

25 out of 31

countries have majorities saying it's important to be born in that country. Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Germany, Sweden and the Netherlands are the exceptions reject increasing taxes to pay for additional public spending. But majorities in almost all countries support increased government spending on public safety, creating jobs and reducing inequality

57%

The Ipsos System is Broken Index – Top 5