

Britain in the European Union

Attitudes towards the free movement of EU citizens

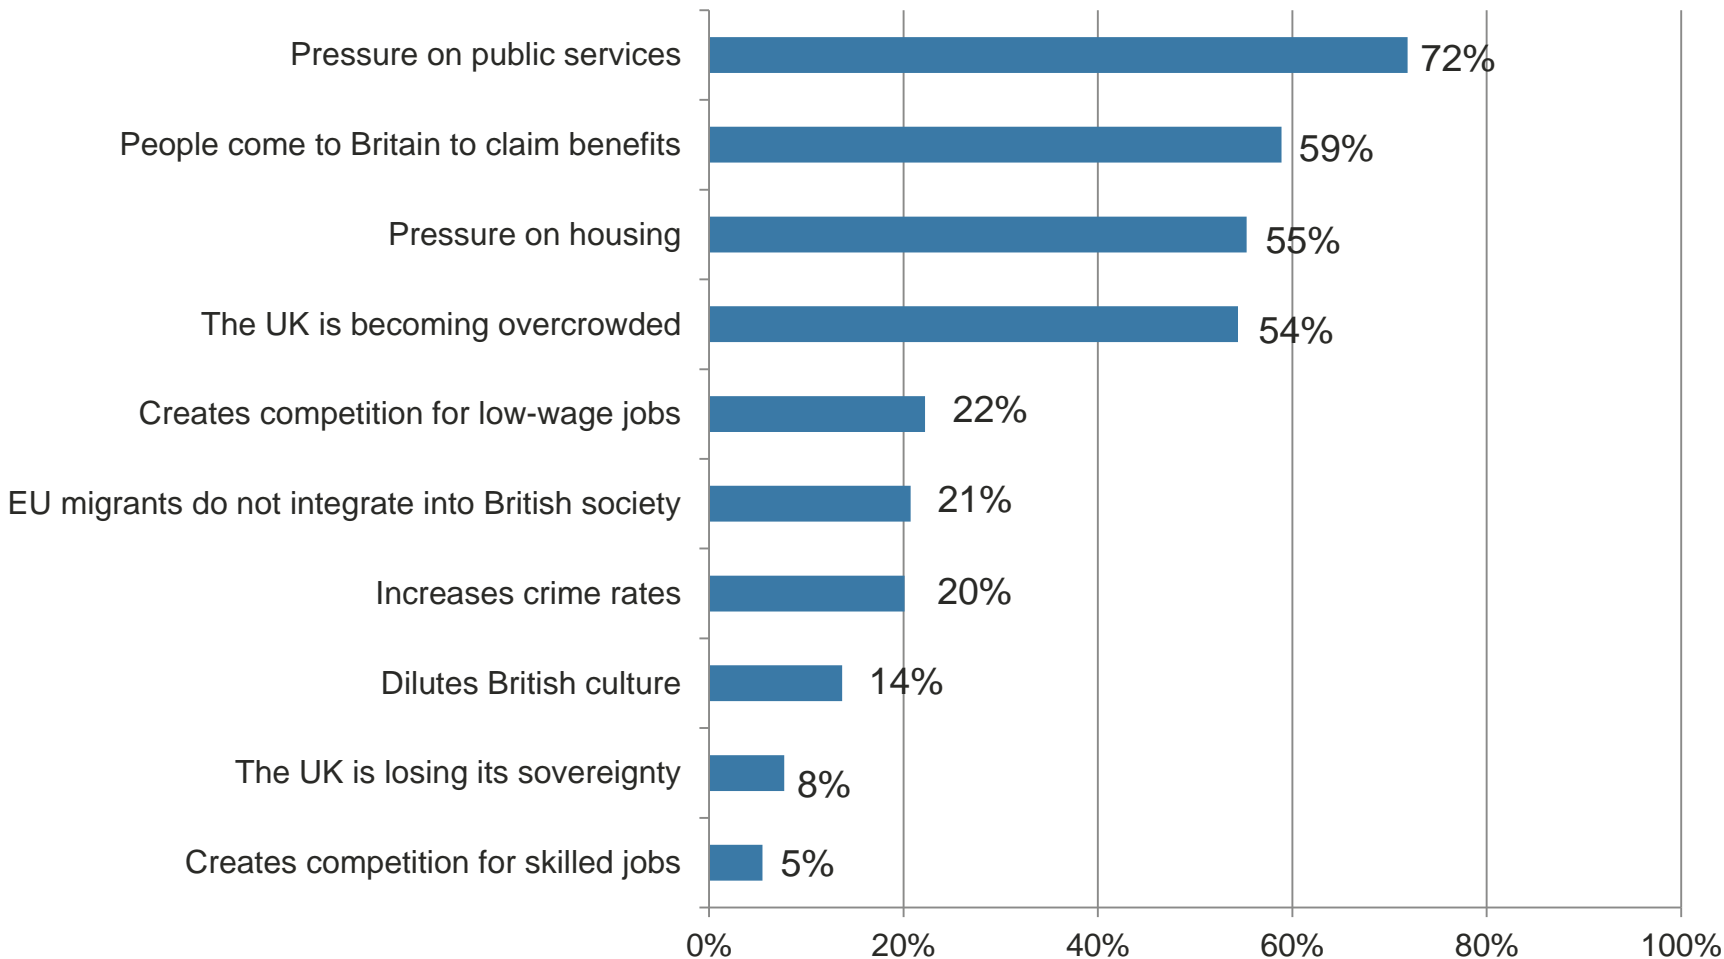

Majority want greater control over immigration but few want a total end to the free movement of EU citizens

Which of these options best describes your own preference for the free movement of people in the EU?

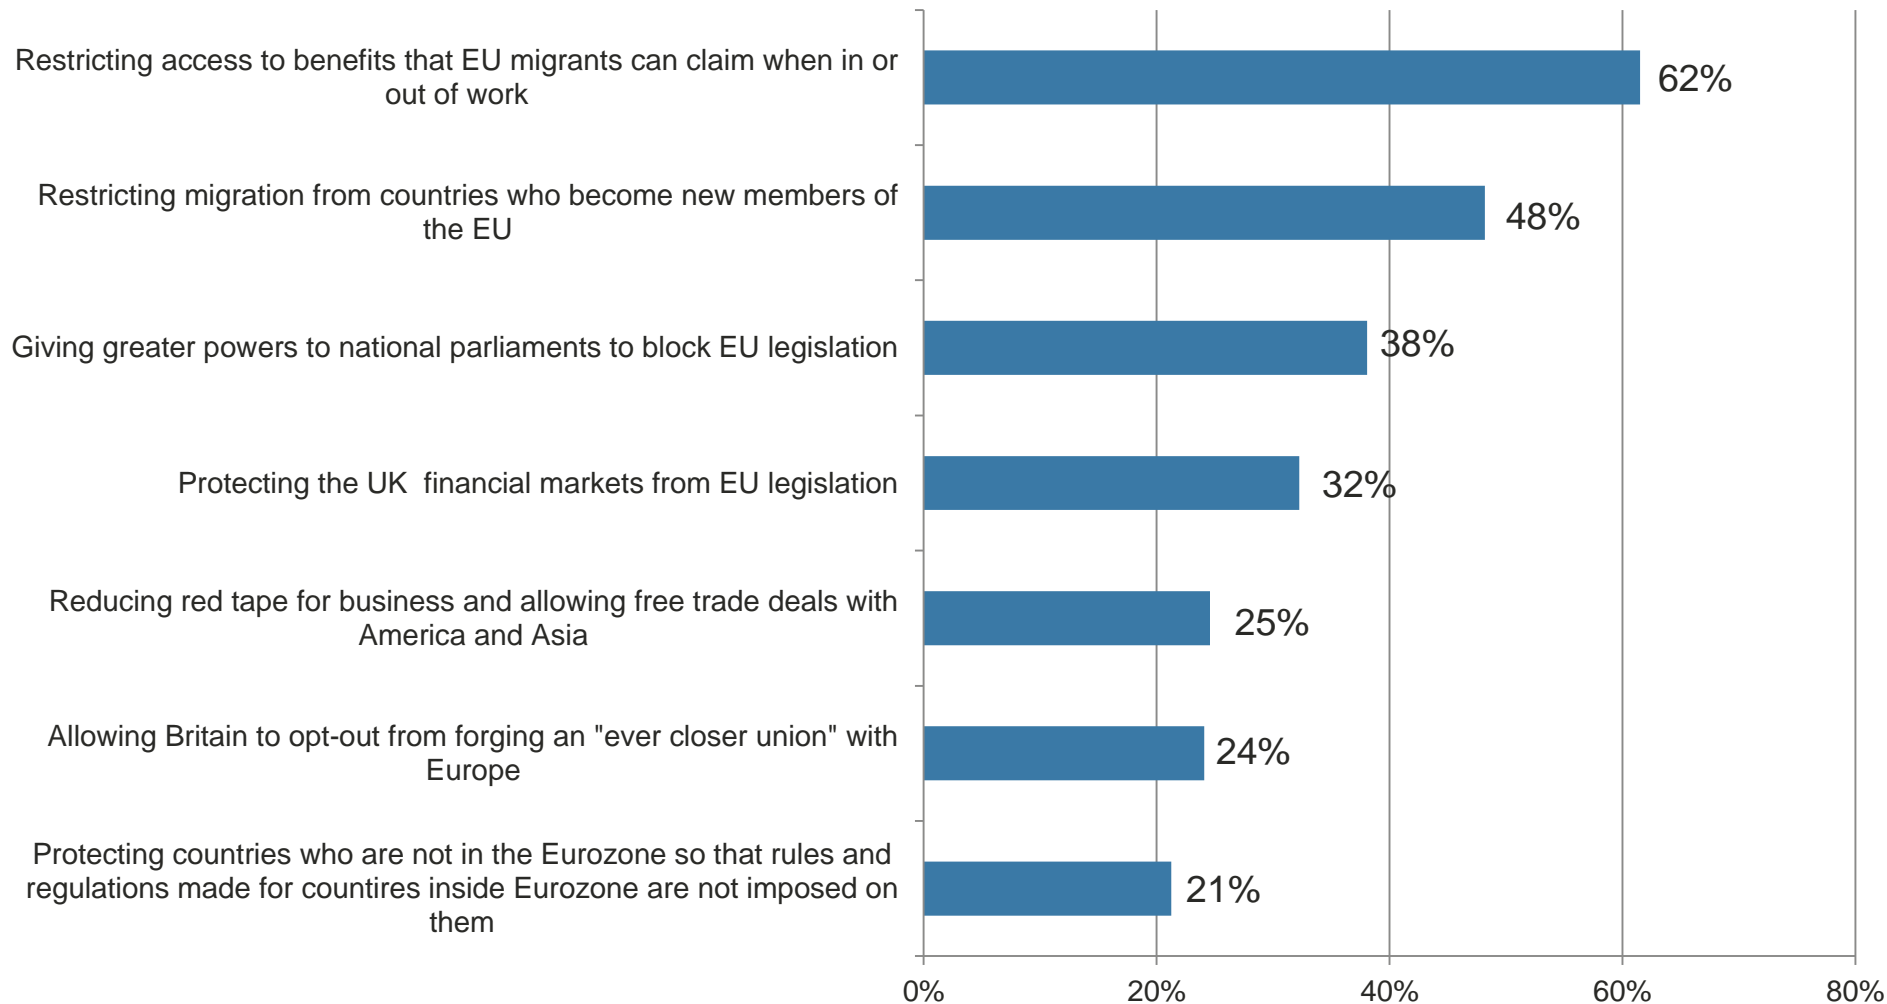

Pressure on public services is the biggest concern for those who want to restrict free movement of EU citizens

Which three or four of the following reasons best describes why you think that the free movement of people between different EU countries should be restricted more than it is now?

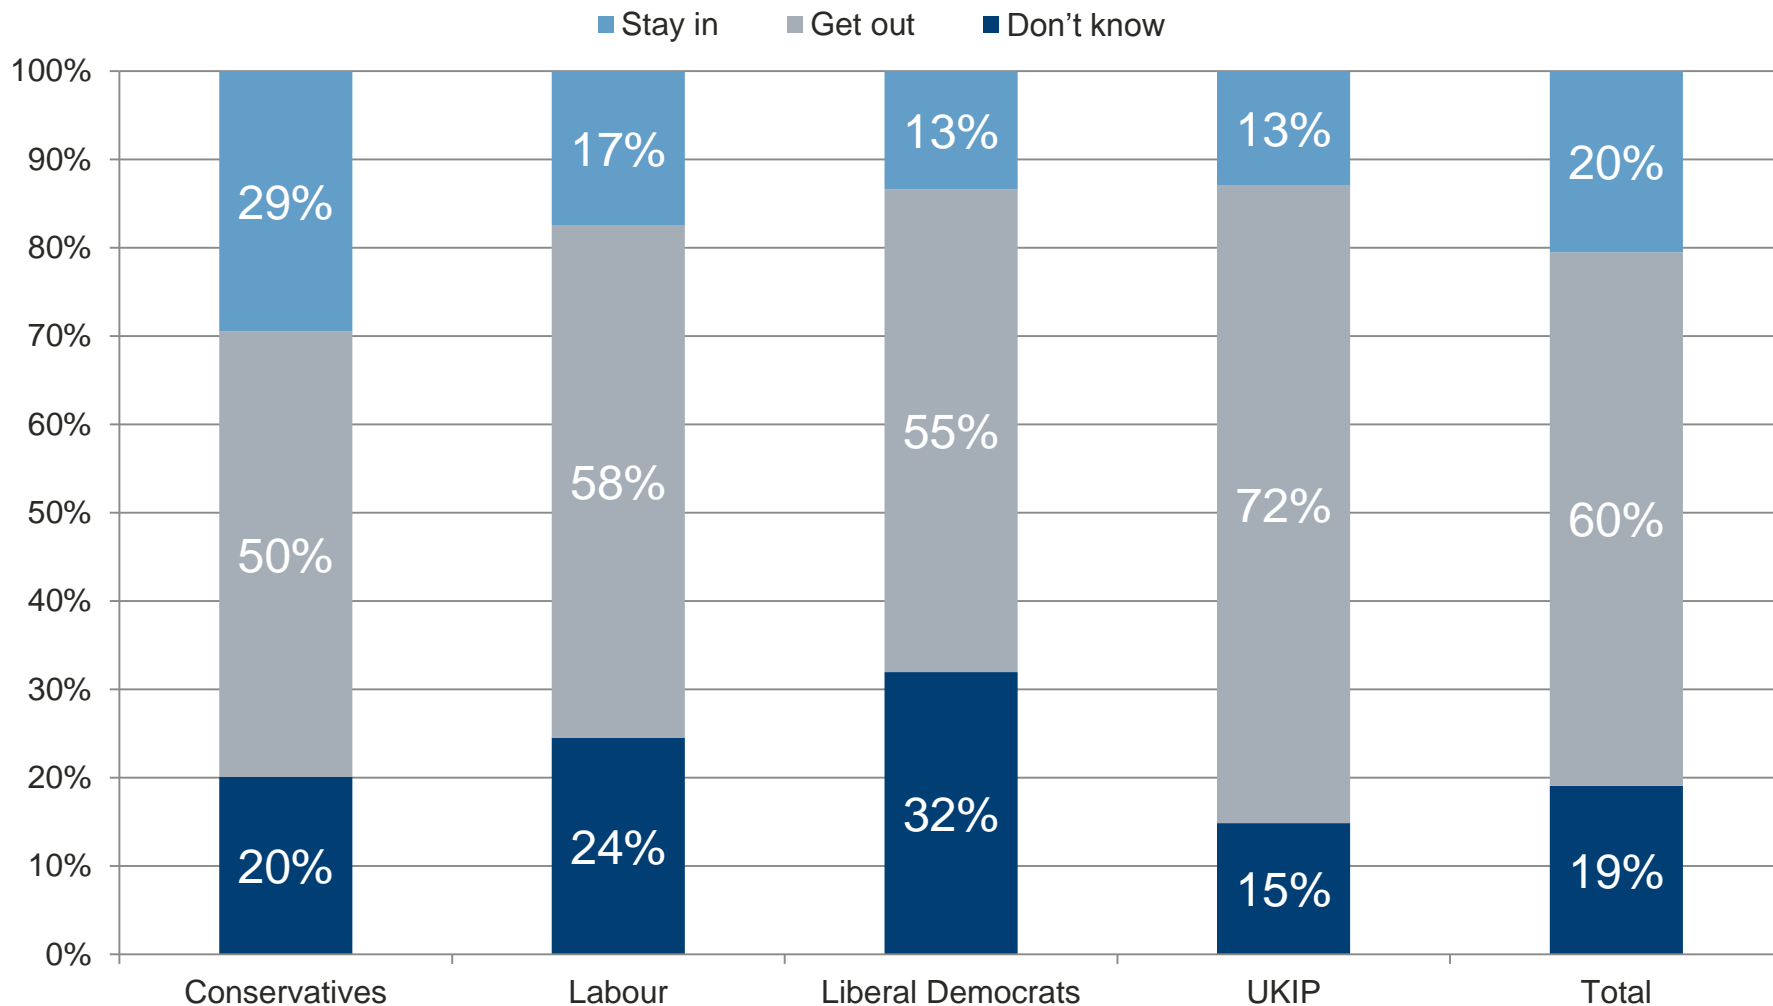

Restricting EU migrants' access to benefits is the most supported aim from Cameron's renegotiation list

There are a number of areas where David Cameron wants to renegotiate Britain's relationship with Europe. Which two or three do you think are most important for him to achieve?

One in five who would vote to leave the EU say they would change their mind to remain a member if David Cameron is successful at his renegotiation

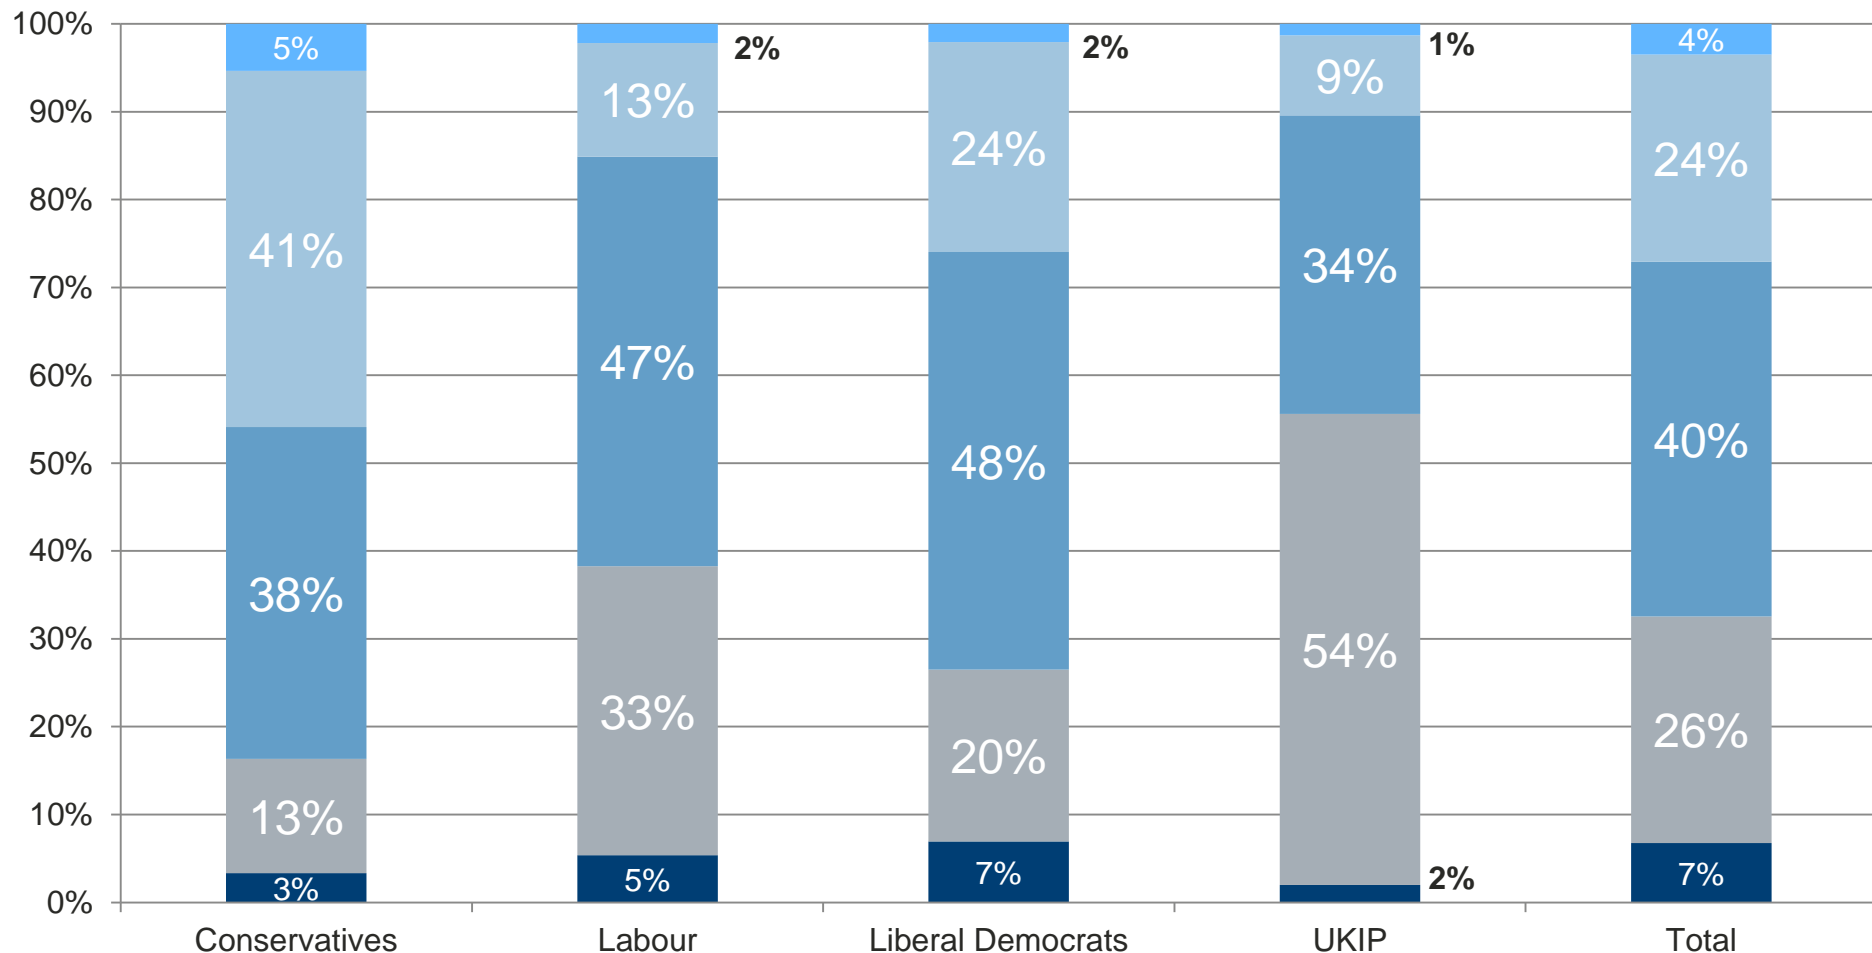

If David Cameron achieved all of these aims, would you vote to stay in or get out of the European Union?

Public have little confidence in Cameron achieving a good deal for Britain although Tories have the most confidence in him

How confident, if at all, you are that David Cameron will get a good deal for Britain in negotiations with other European leaders?

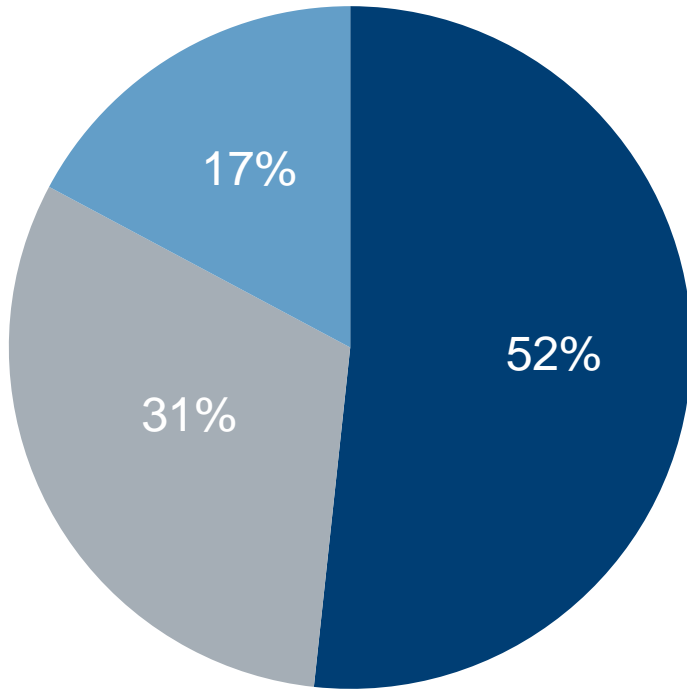

Very confident Fairly confident Not very confident Not confident at all Don't know

If the question on free movement of EU citizens isn't dealt with in Cameron's renegotiations the referendum vote becomes very close

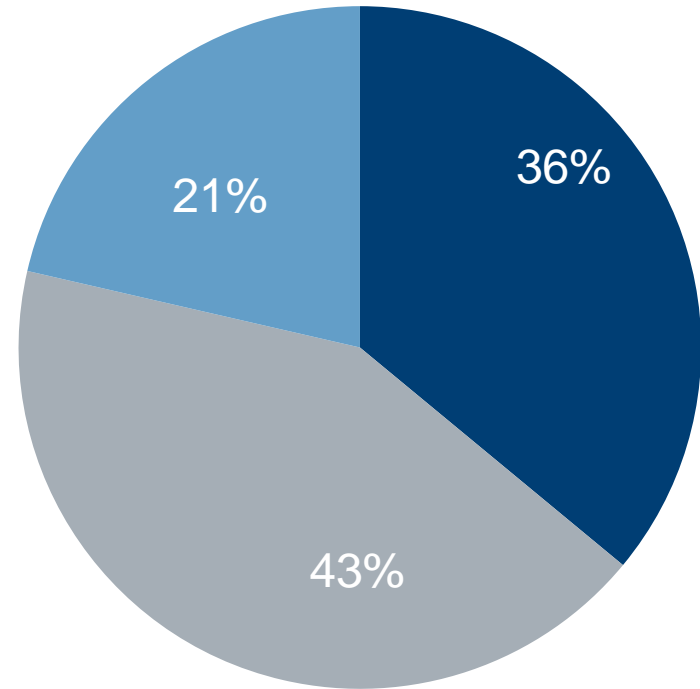

Should the United Kingdom remain a member of the European Union?

■ Yes ■ No ■ Don't Know

If it was not possible to change the laws of the EU to impose greater controls on the free movement of people, do you think Britain should remain part of the EU with the current laws on free movement, or leave the EU altogether?

■ Stay in the EU ■ Leave the EU ■ Don't Know
