Some people say that Muslims, people of the Arab nations and those who follow the teachings of Islam are against Western values and Christianity, and this is the real reason behind the terrorist threats and attacks on the United States. Other people say that the terrorist threats and attacks on the United States are actually the work of only a handful of radicals who are against Western values and Christianity, and is not really reflective of Muslims, people of the Arab nations and those who follow the teachings of Islam. Which is closer to your own point of view ?
