As you may know, the Canadian Alliance and the Progressive Conservative party have been trying to get together without success for many years. This situation has meant that there is virtually no national conservative political party to oppose the federal Liberals. Setting aside for a moment what you know or think about the federal Progressive Conservative party or the Canadian Alliance party. If the federal Progressive Conservative Party and the Canadian Alliance Party merged and became a single party, how likely would you be vote for them in the next federal election? Would you say you are very likely, somewhat likely, not very likely, or not likely at all to vote for this merged party ?
