Some people say that those arrested represent an isolated group of fanatical individuals and this does not mean that there are other potential terrorist groups operating in Canada Others people say that this group is likely just the "tip of the iceberg" and there are many more groups in Canada not yet discovered that are just waiting to commit acts of terrorism Which comes closer to your opinion?

As you may know, Canadian police and security services arrested 17 individuals on the weekend who were allegedly involved in a terrorist plot concerning a number of Canadian targets. Some people say that terrorist threats like this one have everything to do with the fact that Canada's troops are involved in combat in Afghanistan. Other people say that even if Canadian troops weren't in Afghanistan we'd still be a target for terrorism because we are a Western Country, like the United States and Britain. Which comes closer to your opinion?
