XC1. There are lots of issues in the news today, many of which probably have an impact on you or your family. Other issues might not have an impact on you directly, but might greatly impact people in other parts of the world. In some cases, you might be angry or passionate enough about an issue to take action, perhaps by writing a letter, signing a petition, joining an organization or even by protesting in person. In other cases, you might be upset about an issue, but not personally take any action. Thinking about an issue or issues of concern facing you, your family, or other Canadians nowadays, which of the following best describes your overall mood?
