cupw1. Currently, by law, only Canada Post is allowed to deliver letter mail in Canada. A number of private companies have said that they would also like to deliver letter mail in Canada. Canada Post offers letter mail service for the price of a stamp, regardless of the origin or destination of mail within Canada. In the case that private companies were allowed to offer a competing letter mail service in Canada, pricing decisions would be left up to those companies. Do you strongly support, somewhat support, somewhat oppose, or strongly oppose allowing private companies to deliver letter mail in Canada?

cupw2. If you knew that allowing private companies to offer a competing letter mail service in Canada would make it impossible for Canada Post to keep its current one-price-goes-anywhere service for the price of a stamp, would you then change your mind and oppose letting private companies deliver letter mail in Canada?
