5_1. (There is enough waste and inefficiency at City Hall that $774 million could very well be cut from the operating budget and still keep current programs in place) Toronto City Council has approved the 2011 $9.383-billion operating budget for the city. By repealing the vehicle tax and holding the line on property taxes to a zero percent increase, it's likely that an estimated $774 million budget shortfall for next year's budget will have to be made up by either cutting some programs and services, finding money-saving efficiencies throughout City Hall, raising some taxes or a combination of the three. There really is no 'gravy train' at City Hall the programs and services currently funded are already under stress from a lack of revenue sources and are at their limit	237	111	126	92	84	62	29	83	83	43	29	106	44	16	2

5. (Low2box Summary) Toronto City Council has approved the 2011 $9.383-billion operating budget for the city. By repealing the vehicle tax and holding the line on property taxes to a zero percent increase, it's likely that an estimated $774 million budget shortfall for next year's budget will have to be made up by either cutting some programs and services, finding money-saving efficiencies throughout City Hall, raising some taxes or a combination of the three. Please indicate the extent to which you agree or disagree with the following statements?

10. Overall, would you say that the pace at which Mayor Ford and City Council is moving things along is either too fast, too slow or just right?
