2. During this past week Mayor Rob Ford admitted and apologized for a series of drunken behaviors and admitted that he had smoked crack probably in one of my drunken stupors. He also said he won't do it again and will not resign or take a leave of absence for health treatment he will stay on the job working for taxpayers who can then vote on October 27, 2014 in the Toronto municipal election and determine his political fate. In your view, is his plan acceptable or not acceptable?

5. Some/other people say Premier Kathleen Wynne and the provincial Government should change whatever legislation needs to be changed to intervene and have a temporary superintendent be put in place to remove Mayor Ford from office and to work with Toronto City Council in managing the business of the city because the city government is in crisis. Other/some people say that Premier Kathleen Wynne and the provincial Government should stay out of what’s going on at Toronto city hall and that Toronto’s elected Councilors should be allowed to work through these current difficulties because that is how a democracy should work and there really isn’t a crisis in getting things accomplished on behalf of their constituents. Which is closer to your point of view?
